"I'm really glad to see Hagar come and train our villagers today. People here do not have much education and they are unaware of the dangers of human trafficking, be it for labour or other. Not so long ago, a few village members were trafficked to Laos and Thailand. They have not come back."

-Mr Bun Chan Sok Phal, a Village Chief of Police

"In 2017, we are proactively looking for ways to engage individuals, families, communities and government officials to prevent further acts of violence against Cambodians. This balance of awareness raising, advocacy and capacity building is proving fruitful and we will continue to expand upon existing activities and levels of influence."

-Mike Nowlin, Executive Director, Hagar Cambodia
